

Karen Chambers Program Director

Biography

Karen L Chambers, CST, FAST, MHA/Ed, began her medical career in NYC working for the 911/EMS system. Upon becoming a Certified Surgical Technologist, her passion of healthcare grew, guiding her to author various articles, a textbook and become a healthcare educator and program director at various institutions of higher education. Currently, she works as the Program Director at Eastwick College's AAS in Surgical Technology Program. She selflessly shares her knowledge, integrity and compassion needed in the healthcare arena both as a team player and as the deliverer of utmost patient care. With encouragement and guidance from some of her mentors, she enrolled at the University of Phoenix in 2008 to begin her pursuit of an associate degree, never realizing it would lead her to completion of her MHA/Ed in 2012, and currently completing her EdD! She has published numerous scholarly articles, authored an educational textbook and was awarded the highest recognition given by the Association of Surgical Technologist, the FAST (Fellow of the Association of Surgical Technology) credential.

NJ 07417

(201) 327-8877

kchambers@eastwick.edu

Specialties

All aspects of education as a Program Director, Clinical Coordinator and Professor of all topics expected to be shared with students within the 7th Core Curriculum. Extensive knowledge on how to gain student engagement and accomplish above the minimum requirement of 70% pass rate for all of our students. Administrating large volume of students as well as multiple faculty members.

