

Robert Lopez

Professor, Program Director

Biography

I am an education specialist in curriculum and instruction. I have acquired multiple Master's Degrees in various fields and several business and technology degrees.

Specialties

My specialties are customer relationship management, business relations, leadership strategies, marketing, and program development. As a Surgical Program Director, I am constantly piloting new and innovative practices, such as Artificial Intelligence, Reverse Logistics, and other global applications, in my program. I am the Clinical Coordinator, Program Director, and Surgical Tech Professor at Cosumnes River College in Sacramento, California, a community college. As a healthcare professional, I maintain my surgical tech skills, having been in the field for over 25 years, and have trained in both military and civilian environments.
